

Local walkers aid Oxfam

Quite a number of St. Albertans walked with the "March for Millions" last Saturday in a cold, rainy, windy weather that didn't stop 935 walkers from doing the entire 25 miles. How many St. Albert people took part in the Oxfam walk is hard to say but we know of the following: Fred deLuca who was probably the first adult to complete the 25 miles, coming in about 2 o'clock, Wilfred Borgstede, Bill Batty and Cliff Munro also completed and Father Duchesneau walked nine miles. David Sutherland, Louise Lamoureux and Cathy Delhagy were students doing the whole route. We would be happy to hear from other local people who took part in the March, so we can record them next week. Beside the money collected for hungry people in other parts of the world, the walk was a graphic way to focus public attention on the needs of the less fortunate. Mrs. Hennie Stibbe of the Gazette staff walked the 25 miles, earning $25 for Oxfam from her sponsors, the Mayor and Councillors.

Here is her own account.

"MILES FOR MILLIONS"

by Hennie Stibbe
That's what it said on the tag each walker was given at the start of the 25 mile Oxfam Walk. "Miles for Millions," but after 3 or 4 hours of pounding the pavement one began to wonder if the tag pinned to your sweater shouldn't read "Millions of Miles." Because that's what it seemed like!

We started out right at 8 A.M. from the Parliament Building, down Bellamy Hill up Connor's Road to Whyte Avenue. From there the marked route took us west to the University, back to 109 Street, across the High Level Bridge, passed the Marchan Mansion, down Stony Plain Road, across MacKinnon Ravine and west to Meadow Lark Shopping Centre. North to Stony Plain Road again, up 142 Street to Westmount, along Kingsway to First Street and back to the 25 mile finishing point at the Parliament Building. There were 9 checking stations along the way, where walkers received a stamp on their entry form. First-Aid men were stationed along the route as were people from the AMA, who assisted walkers in crossing busy intersections.

We began our walk as part of the small group headed by the Honorable Dr. J. W. Grant MacEwan. Dressed in run-down boots, khaki pants and plaid shirt, Mr. MacEwan is a real sport. On 83 Street he was stopped by a little old lady. She told the Lieutenant Governor she met him at a dinner a few months ago. "Of course," smiled His Honor, "I remember you." She presented him with a straw hat, which was graciously accepted. To a Journal photographer, Mr. MacEwan called out: "Hi, where are your running shoes?" And judging by the many car horns greeting Mr. MacEwan along the way, Alberta's Lieutenant Governor is a much liked person.

This 26 years old, slightly out-of-condition housewife found it pretty tough going. The majority of the walkers I met along the route were students, 16 - 17 years old. They sprinted for sever-

It's hard to tell Hennie (third from left) from the teenagers - but she said the kids were a lot more lively at the finish. We found her sitting on the curb ruefully surveying her sore and blistered feet and ready for a ride home. Gazette Photo.

Lieutenant - Governor Grant MacEwan wearing the hat given him en route by one of the many fans who encouraged him along the 25 miles he finished. Mayor Dantzer strides along jauntily and also went the full distance for Oxfam. Gazette Photo.

Library Board plans opening

At the regular meeting of the St. Albert Library Board held May 29th, Mr. Soprovich reported that the furniture on order would begin arriving in the near future. The meeting also approved purchase of the following furnishings for the children's section: three benches in wood finish, one round table, 25 inches high and five side al blocks at a time, most of them completing the 25 mile hike in less than 6 hours. It was all I could do to stumble across the finish line, bare foot for the last 3 miles because of badly blistered, bleeding feet, in just over 7 hours. I must admit that I came close to giving up on several occasions. But it seemed that just when you were ready to drop out, some thing nice happened to perk you up again. Like being stopped around the corner from Meadow Lark by Councillor Armand Donais, who very kindly offered "Can I get you a drink or something to eat?" Or the Royalite Station attendant on Stony Plain Road, who came rushing out of the building in the pouring rain, offering us the key to his washroom. Or just strangers driving by in their cars, shouting Good Luck! We met several nice kids on our travels. Like 15 year old Maryanne who "only made up her mind to go at 6:30 this morning", and who was being sponsored for 17¢ a mile by her 19 year old brother, who was up ahead, walking for Oxfam himself. And speaking of SPONSORS: A reminder to the MAYOR AND COUNCILLORS: Please have your cheques, payable to OXFAM ready for me at Monday's Council meeting. Twenty five dollars divided by 6, about $4.50 each should do nicely!

chairs, 14 inches high. Another round table (27 & 1/2") was ordered for the Reference Section. Mr. Soprovich agreed to check into the purchasing of two additional stacks for the adult section. A motion that additional help for cataloguing books be obtained at the rate of $2.00 per hour was carried. It was decided to advertise the re-opening of the Library on June 13 and Mrs. Hesse was asked to contact Mr. Learning in regard to having a sign painted on the front door showing library hours.

Regulations were set up to cover "large borrowing" - an individual taking more than the normal allotment of books per membership. Large borrowers must make application to the Library Board, and they will be required to purchase a $4.00 family membership. There will be a two week limit on the books, with no renewal privileges.

Overdue charges were also set by the meeting: Adult Books at 5¢ per day for each day the library is open and 2¢ per library day for children's books. If fines reach $1.00 and remain unpaid, membership will be cancelled.

St. Paul enjoys St. Albert landing

About 100 small flying saucers were floating down from all directions and youngsters were scrambling all over to pick up the advance messages from out of this world space visitors to St. Paul's launching pad, opened for business on Saturday. The inscribed saucers requested permission to land, a variety of space notations and a friendly reception for space visitors arriving momentarily from planet S.A. with C.B.C.

Actually the timing of the helicopter landing was perfect - it touched down just after the arrival of Paul Hellyer and other V.I.P.'s at the landing pad. The space visitors in screamingly bright fuchsia and silver attire, straight out of popular science, made a sensational first landing spectacle, to the great delight of the people of St. Paul.

Copter Pilot Valere Roy and his wife Nette Roy of Bonnyville, joined wholeheartedly in the fun, allowing themselves to be dressed up in the weird and vivid space costumes, and acting as marvellous ambassadors. Not to mention their warm hearted co-operation in piloting and providing the Valere Construction helicopter for the stunt.

It turned out that Bill and Mona Sutherland from planet St. Albert, on a mission with the Canada Birthday Card (C.B.C.) were the space visitors. In brilliant fuchsia pink tights and wide belts with flashing lights, silver boots and helmets complete with small size and large top antenna (would you believe camouflaged toothpicks and inverted ice cream cones) they made a big hit. Jewelled necklines and huge S on back of the men's capes, modern art t-shirts and dramatic stage make-up completed the costumes.

After the ceremonies at the pad the St. Albert group joined the civic luncheon and were told that the Town was "theirs for the day". They report marvellous hospitality and tremendous enthusiasm in St. Paul which the bad weather failed to dampen. Indian Chief Ralph Steinhauer welcomed Mona in a peace pipe ceremony and then drew her into the centre of a circle formed by dancers and drummers, saying "Now I have a wife from Mars." Everywhere they went the St. Paul people thanked them for the stunt landing, saying it was just what was needed. Actually the Sutherlands felt that they were the ones to be grateful for a warm reception and a day that got better and better as it rolled along. In the evening, along with visitors from many neighboring centres, they joined in the get together in the Legion Hall, which capped the day. Bill and Mona had to leave early and Bill thanked every one for the grand time and the support given the Birthday Card. As they made their way out the crowd broke into "For they are jolly good fellows."

The total for the Card now stands at $1,768.87. The Sutherlands were also told that they were seen at the landing pad ceremonies in France - a special television project in connection with the event.

Plan now to go Where Action is

The Voyageurs' Canoe pageants, the Oxfam March the St. Paul landing pad opening - all have had to put up with rainy, miserable weather on big days. BUT THOSE PERSISTENT ST. ALBERT KINSMEN FIGURE THEY HAVE TO HAVE THE LAW OF AVERAGES ON THEIR SIDE FOR RODEO 106. Two years ago they got rained out in June, tried again in August - rained out again. Last year they had more rain - and this year finds them working like mad on the biggest and best Rodeo they've ever promoted.

Rodeo events have been increased to seven this year, with the addition of the crowd pleasing Wild Cow Milking contest. A Canadian trick riding act by the Duce Sisters has been booked and will add colour to the rodeo performances. The act is well-known in rodeo circles.

Deadline near for Art Show

THE CENTENNIAL ART EXHIBITION sponsored by the Catholic Womens League will open June 9. All paintings must be delivered to the Lecture Room of the Centennial Library on SATURDAY, JUNE 17 between 2 p.m. and 6 p.m.

The League has been encouraging all St. Albert artists to contribute a painting for this Exhibition, and arranging for their display. It is a most fitting project for our new Library and the Exhibition is expected to attract considerable public interest. Anyone wishing further information please call Mrs. Borgstede at 599-8601

REG KESLER - popular Rodeo Stock Contractor who is supplying all the stock for St. Albert Rodeo 106 on June 16th and 17th. Born and raised in Southern Alberta, Reg is a champion cowboy himself and won the All-Round Championship of Canada in 1948. He operates a mammoth 2,400 acre ranch at Rosemary, Alberta and his holdings consist of about 250 head Hereford cows, 250 head rodeo horses, 40 head Brahma Bulls and 40 head of Mexican steers for steer wrestling.

K.C.'s take on big project here

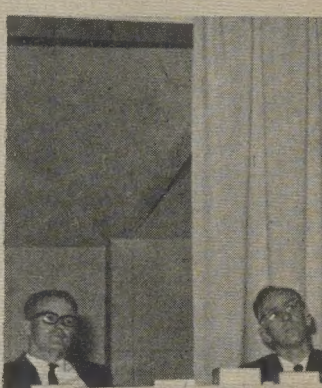

A one night door-to-door campaign will be held in St. Albert on June 29th, to raise $6,500, towards the purchase of a handi-bus for the town's handicapped children and adults.

The Centennial project of the St. Albert Knight's of Columbus will be co-ordinated by Paul Shelemey, Don LaBelle and Gerry Leblanc. 60 canvassers will be required to reach every home in the town.

Approximately 35 children and adults in St. Albert are afflicted by cerebral palsy, muscular dystrophy or some other form of handicap that requires them to travel to Edmonton for special schooling and treatment. Transportation has caused a tremendous financial burden on the families concerned who are providing for private transportation to and from the city. A specially equipped bus designed to carry wheelchairs and special harnesses would be located in St. Albert and provide the means of getting the patients into the city on a daily schedule.

The United Community Fund of Greater Edmonton will provide the funds to maintain the bus, however, they do not allow funds for the original purchase. A donation of $3,30 will be needed from every home in St. Albert if the purchase price is to be realized. House holders are asked to dig deep on Thursday, June 29, and support this most worthy project.

SWIMMING POOL
The swimming pool since its opening on 22nd May has continued to be the main centre of attraction in the town. It is indeed gratifying to see so many of our youngsters - as well as the oldsters making use of our latest sports facility. Line ups are inevitable but some of our younger citizens insist that they are part of the fun!

We would like to take this opportunity of correcting an impression which may have been given in a newspaper published in a city south of St. Albert. Chlorine is not poured into the pool by the pail, and we can assure users of the pool that all the regulations regarding the operation of swimming pools are very strictly observed. It is true that chlorine may have an effect in varying degrees on the eyes, but to say that it is used in excess of what is required is absolute nonsense. Checks on the content of the water are made 5 times daily, in compliance with Provincial regulations and samples of the water are sent to the Provincial laboratories twice weekly. As well as that, the Provincial Health Officer makes periodic inspections of the pool and its

1967 Royal Visit Commemorative Stamp

A special Royal Visit stamp will be released by the Canada Post Office on the 30th June 1967 to commemorate the Centennial Year visit of Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth II. Postmaster General Jean-Pierre Cote announced today.

The stamp is being made available on the eve of Canada's 100th Birthday, July operation. So users of the pool can be assured that their safety is being continually looked after.

It is hoped to please as many people as possible most of the time and as public demand appears to make it necessary, the pool schedule has been altered as follows:

1st, when the Queen, accompanied by her husband, His Royal Highness the Duke of Edinburgh, will take part in ceremonies at Ottawa, the Nation's Capital. On the 3rd July the Royal couple will visit Canada's Centennial World Fair, Expo '67, at Montreal; late in the same day they will sail through the St. Lawrence Seaway aboard the Royal Yacht Britannia for an overnight anchorage near Kingston, Ontario. Later in the month His Royal Highness will visit Winnipeg to open another Centennial year event, the Pan-American Games.

The Centennial Royal Visit stamp is of medium size and horizontal in format. To the right, in purple, it features an engraving of Her Majesty's likeness from a photographic portrait secured by Anthony Buckley of London, England; to the left, also in purple, appears Canada's official Centennial symbol and the dates 1867-1967. The remaining elements of the design, including a symbolic branch of laurel leaves framing the Royal image, are printed in gold on a lighter gold background. It was produced by the intaglio steel plate process by the designers, Canadian Bank Note Company Limited, Ottawa who will print the full issue of twenty-seven million stamps.

Simone Rouault, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Rouault of St. Albert accepted her Bachelor of Education at Convocation May 31st. Simone has been a student at the University for the last 4 years, majoring in French. She has been a part-time teacher with the Edmonton Separate School Board during her last year at University and will accept a full time position with them in the fall.

Newcomers club host picnic

The Welcome Wagon Newcomers Club held a Centennial picnic for residents of Youville Home and senior citizens of St. Albert on Sunday afternoon and everyone enjoyed it thoroughly. Al & Helen Alaine on the guitar led everyone in a singsong, Colleen Kelly entertained with a Highland Fling and Sailor's Hornpipe and Folk singers Harriet Beland and Philomena Wall presented a selection French folk songs. The weather was not very co-operative and the Newcomers were grateful to the Parish for allowing them to use their facilities indoors.

Election of officers will take place at the June 14th meeting of the Club, final meeting of the season. Time of the dinner meeting is 6:30 at the Club Mocombo and members are reminded to telephone Gail Sammons at 599-8746 if they are unable to attend.

Peewees top Soccer League

The St. Albert Peewee Soccer team utterly swamped their opposition (Meadow lark Team) Monday night with a 9-0 score in a game that gave our goal keeper little to do. Gordie Brown with 4 and Jeff Holden with 3 goals led the scoring for St. Albert while Barry Alliston and Gary Ferguson picked up one apiece. Coach John Alliston's team now have three wins and no losses in official league play, putting them on top in league standings. In a friendly game Friday evening against the Victoria team from Edmonton the Peewees lost 2-1. Despite poor weather the youngsters played a well-contested game which kept both goalies busy. Garry Larson of St. Albert pulled off many fine saves. Jeff Holden got the lone goal and the visitors scored from break aways, with the local team pressing right to the final whistle.

The Bantam team, playing in Kinsmen Park Sunday came up with a strong 4-0 win over Avonmore. McKinnon scored three fine goals for the local squad and Coward got one goal, as the St. Albert team completely dominated the game. Halfbacks Ferguson, Ahronson and Coward played very well indeed. In three games the Bantams, coached by Fred Allen have two wins and a loss. On Wednesday at 7 p.m. the Bantams go against the Balwin Club at Paul Kane field.

The Midgets will play Wednesday at Victoria Com posite grounds.

Audience roared at "Where's Charlie"

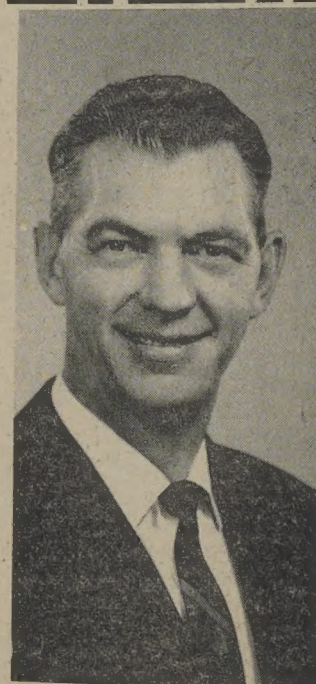

On Sunday, June 4, approximately 200 people were hilariously entertained by the presentation of the musical comedy, "Where's Charlie" by the Torches Theatre, presently on tour in northern Alberta.

Meldrum Tuck, who starred as both, Charlie Wykeham and Charlie's "aunt" kept the audience in stitches throughout the performance. His weakness in singing, was more than overcome by his excellent dancing and acting, especially the use of facial expression.

The remainder of the cast acted and sang very well. One of the long-time members of Torches Theatre feels that this production is their best since they staged "The Fantastiks" two years ago.

The group will play 17 nights in northern Alberta towns from Red Deer to Grande Prairie in the next three weeks, before they return to Edmonton for their summer run at the U of A.

The Morinville Centennial Frontier Daze Committee which co-sponsored the evening along with the Alberta Centennial Committee is disturbed by the support it is getting in trying to bring cultural productions to the Town of Morinville. The Committee must now decide whether to abandon the attempt, or try once more in the hope that a more suitable time may bring a better crowd, says publicity director, Paul Chalifoux.

N.D.P. plan program

New Democrats met in St. Albert on the weekend to review election results and discuss plans for the future. With a provincial gain to 16% of the popular vote, and in St. Albert constituency a threefold increase in support, members do not share the conclusion that they had been annihilated on May 23. Admittedly, it is disappointing that over 67,000 Albertans will be without representation in the Legislature during the next four years.

With the support presently evident in the area the meeting concluded that a full-fledged constituency organization should be set up and work on this will continue throughout the summer. Discussion also centred on the formation of study groups in the near future with political education, New Democrat principles and programs as some of the suggested study topics.

A general meeting of supporters will be held in the constituency early in September at which time the summer's program will be finalized and the constituency executive elected for the next term. In the mean time anyone interested in further information or in becoming an active member in the New Democratic Party may contact Dr. N. Dolman, 599-7248; W. J. Netelenbos 599-7187, or M. Sullivan - 599-6074.

United Church News

June brings the climax of the year's work in the Sunday School. Next Sunday, June 11th, pupils and teachers will be in charge of both the 9:30 and the 11:00 a.m. services, when awards will be made and various classes will take part. In the afternoon, from two to four, the annual Church School picnic will be held in the grounds of the Cuts' residence, 6 Greengrove Drive. Parents and children are invited to be present.

Sunday, June 18th will be the first day of the summer schedule of services. One service only will be held, commencing at 9:30 a.m. each Sunday and including the first Sunday in September. There will be a service of infant baptism on June 18th and interested parents are asked to contact Rev. Mr. L. J. Musto in this regard.

The congregation was given some intimation of summer plans when Mr. Musto told them that joint services will again be held by Braeside Presbyterian Church and St. Albert United Church. Mr. Musto will preach for the first two Sundays in July following which Mr. Jarvis will be the preacher, with Mr. Musto returning for the latter half of August. Another ecumenical project was mentioned, that of a Vacation School to be held in August under the joint auspices of St. Matthew's Anglican, Braeside Presbyterian and St. Albert United. Persons interested in assisting with leadership and other help for this project should contact their respective ministers as their help will be greatly appreciated.

Leaders are also required for various United Church Camps to be held throughout the summer. Mr. Musto has details of these, and would be very glad to hear from you. Many of these positions could be filled by responsible young people, who would be able to help others and have a very good time doing it!

Screening urged for imported doctors

To protect the flow of foreign-trained doctors in Canada the Canadian Medical Association has recommended screening programs for medical graduates before they leave their own homelands, according to a report by Medical Post staff writer Milan Korok. In a brief presented to the special joint Senate-House committee on immigration, the CMA stresses that Canada must recruit more than 500 foreign doctors every year to maintain the present level of one doctor for every 825 people. At the present time many foreign-trained doctors immigrate to Canada without guarantees that they will be able to obtain licenses to practice. Dr. D. G. Cameron spokesman for the association suggests that the screening programs be designed in cooperation with Council of Canada the provincial cod sicians and surgery

More effort -money needed on pollution

If municipal governments, industries and the agricultural community would spend as much time, talent and money to eliminate the pollution they create, as the pulp and paper industry does, the pollution problem would quickly diminish. So says Douglas Dingeldein, field editor of Canadian Pulp and Paper Industry, in his current report on the recent pollution discussions held in Toronto by the Association of Great Lakes Research. "The sessions were a flop," writes Dingeldein, "no concrete, practical proposals were made, no resolutions were adopted--nothing comes made their way to the CN station to begin their journey home to waiting parents and friends.

The group would like to express their extreme gratitude to Mr. Trew for his efforts, time, and persistence in making the dream a reality for them, I'm sure the venture was an experience not one of us will forget.

from nothing. The three-day conference made no mention of industrial polluters. For years the pulp and paper industry in Canada and the U.S. (90% of U.S. mills will control effluent by 1968) has been quietly and relentlessly spending millions of dollars to improve the streams, rivers and water bodies it uses, and to improve production methods so that less water is needed in mill operations."

Legal girl weds Manitoba man

St. Joseph's Cathedral in Edmonton was the setting for a beautiful afternoon ceremony Saturday when Miss Jeanne Piquette daughter of Mrs. Jean Piquette and the late Mr. Jean Piquette of Legal became the bride of Mr. Charles Varga son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Varga of Middlebro, Manitoba.

The double ring ceremony was performed by Father Hamilton before an altar decorated with baskets of white mums and pink glads. Given in marriage by Mr. Leo Moreau the bride was very attractive in her floor length wedding ensemble of prelude satin. Her long coat with a train trimmed with hand clipped lace appliques was worn over a sleeveless sheath with an empire waist banded with lace appliques. Her headpiece was a tulie cloche with matching lace. She carried a nosegay of white daisies. Her maid of honour Miss Michaelina Montpetit and her bridesmaids Miss Marguerite Piquette her sister and Miss Sylvia St. Martin wore identical floor length gowns in a white corded sharkskin with an empire waist banded with blue lace insertion. They carried nosegays of tinted blue carnations with matching floral headpieces.

The groom's attendant was Mr. Bill Stapleton, the best men were Mr. Paul Bonifacio nephew of the bride and Mr. Dave Dumont of Edmonton. The ushers were Mr. Raymond Gibeau of Morinville and Mr. Harvey Nickson of Edmonton.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Piquette chose a turquoise silk knit two-piece suit with matching oyster accessories. Her suit was complimented by a corsage of yellow baby roses.

Mrs. Varga had chosen a beige lace ensemble with matching accessories and a white corsage of baby roses.

Following the ceremony a banquet was held at the Legal Community Centre for some one hundred guests with 200 attending the reception in the evening.

Mr. Fernand Gibeau was M.C. for the occasion.

Mr. and Mrs. Varga will reside in Edmonton.

Shower honours Irene Boisvert

A miscellaneous shower was held last Sunday at the Community Centre for Miss Irene Boisvert. The centre was beautifully decorated with novelty arrangements of silver hearts, red roses and streamers.

Seated at the head table was the guest of honour, her mother Mrs. Pierre Boisvert and her future bridesmaids Misses Jacqueline and Pauline VanBrabant. Irene looked lovely in a sleeveless white lace bodice dress with a navy blue skirt complimented by a corsage of red roses.

To entertain the guests several games were played, among them was the "guessing game", the amount of beans in a pint bottle and the number of candies in a bag. The lucky winners were Mrs. Joseph L'Heureux and Mrs. Paul Clouthier.

To help the bride to be become a better cook everyone was asked to write her favorite recipe which made her eligible for the door prize, it was won by Mrs. Paul Montpetit.

Miss Boisvert was showered with many beautiful and useful gifts. She thanked the hostesses Mrs. Lucille de Champlain and Mrs. Jeanette Baert for organizing such a lovely afternoon in her honour and everyone for attending.

The head table was centred with a beautifully decorated "Good Luck" cake that was served to everyone after the serving of a delicious lunch.

Miss Boisvert is the bride elect of Mr. Guy VanBrabant of St. Paul. The wedding will be held in St. Emile's Church in Legal on June 17.

"You know, it just COULD be the Crest", says "dentist" Dave Sutherland, holding up a giant tooth which he has just removed from his patient's mouth. The unwilling patient, Rickey Dawes, is being subdued by "nurse" Deborah Courtapatte, who has made herself comfortable by sitting on her patient's lap. This hilarious skit was but one of some ten highly entertaining acts on the program when St. Albert High presented what School Principal Mr. W. Soprovich called "its 10th, 11th or 12th Annual Variety Night." An overflow crowd thoroughly enjoyed the 2 hour program last Wednesday evening. Extra chairs had to be brought in as the auditorium was rapidly filled. A pantomime "Wild Nell or Her Noble Sacrifice" had the audience howling with laughter. Philomena and Harriette two very fine folk singers, Sherry Evans, who sang "Mammela" and "Dear Heart" in a pleasingly smooth voice with very fine diction and the Pryme Meridium were also featured. The Pryme Meridium, as usual, had the youngsters hopping in their seats. We noticed one young girl completely enthralled, with tears in her eyes. One mother was heard to exclaim, "So THAT'S what Leeanne is always talking about". Mr. Soprovich stood in the doorway, eyeing this "hip" crowd, with a look of bewilderment on his face.

A one-act play opened the program - Tea-Pot on the Rocks" by John Kirkpatrick, with a cost of 6 and Elaine McRae and Michele Roboud sharing the Directing honours. Other solo performers were Kim Donalds with Monologue "Joyce Malone on the Phone" and Highland Dancer Shirley Mae O'Neill.

The Production Staff comprised nine students, so that the entire program was done by the young people, who invited their principal, Mr. Soprovich, to welcome their guests. All in all it was a most enjoyable evening's entertainment.

The students of St. Albert High did a fine job. Mr. Soprovich and Mrs. Kaminisky presented Proficiency Awards to the School's four top students. Winning plaques for high academic standing and deportment were Janet Oliphant (grade 12), Kerry Cassidy (grade 11) Bogumil Romanko (grade 10) and Elaine McRae (grade 9)

TEEN JOB SERVICE

Y.E.S.! Are your bedding plants still sitting in the garage, more dead than alive and if you don't get them out real quick you won't have a flower - garden this year. But the man-of-the-house is out of town all week and YOU don't know one end of a spade from the other. Will YOUR plants be planted tonight? . . . Y.E.S.! Your husband is threatening to "fire you" because he couldn't find a clean shirt this morning. You KNOW you should get the old iron out tonight, but you play Bridge on Thursdays. Will YOUR husband have a freshly ironed shirt tomorrow morning? . . . Y.E.S.!

Y.E.S. stands for Youth Employment Service, the brain child of Mrs. Mae Mirlin, who, aided by Mrs. Swane and Mrs. Evans has spent considerable time and effort organizing the service. At present some 200 names are on file at the Y.E.S. office in the Fire Hall. Mrs. Mirlin said most of the students listed are 15 - 16 years of age, but ages vary from 13 to 19. This unique service not only provides a much greater opportunity for St. Albert teens to earn money, but it is a real boon for prospective employers. Because, now for the first time in St. Albert, whether you need someone to sit with your child, paint your fence or walk your dog, ONE CALL DOES IT ALL.

The telephone number for Y.E.S. is 599-8202. Until Exams are over 3 ladies Mrs. Mirlin, Mrs. Swane and Mrs. Evans take turns answering the telephone Wednesday - Thursday and Friday evenings from 7 - 9. When school is out the students will take over the operation of Y.E.S. in its entirety, and Mrs. Mirlin expects there will be an increase in office hours during the summer months. When a call is received with a job offer, the person answering the phone will always try to send out a student who lives in the area where the call originated, thus easing the transportation problem. The easy jobs are given to the

Achievement Night at Paul Kane

A good turn-out of parents was on hand May 31, for Achievement Night at Paul Kane. Entertainment by the drama and Home Ec classes vied for honours with displays of Centennial projects and students work in Art, Business Education, Industrial Arts and Science. Some interesting Egyptian artifacts were included in the Social Studies display, and two Provincial travelling art exhibits and the Brady exhibit of photography were an interesting addition to the Art section.

"The London Look" was presented in the Fashion Show put on by the Home Economics Classes - The girls modelled their own sewing while Susan McGee provided a running commentary.

Two short plays were presented by the Drama classes, "Miss Twiddle and the Devil" and Grade 10 and younger teens, jobs requiring more responsible action are designated to the older students. The students are asked to contribute 10% of money earned to a Fund, from which students manning the telephone will be paid for their time. A student is allowed 3 complaints, after that he or she will be removed from the list. Arrangements for payment will be made between employer and student and file will show record of transactions. Students interested in joining Y.E.S. are invited to do so by telephoning 599-8202. All applicants must be in grade 9 or up. Mrs. Mirlin said she will supervise and do whatever she can to make Y.E.S. a success, "but", she says, "I can't make jobs for the kids". THAT is up to YOU!

Enthusiastic bowler Eileen Gibbon was presented with the "most constant good natured" award at the Annual Bowling Banquet held at the Club Mocombo, Friday evening. Eileen, who cheerfully admits she's "probably the League's worst bowler" accepted the award which turned out to be a "pop-up snake in a jar!"

Around Town

Norman Girard took his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Girard, out to dinner at the Caravan last Saturday, on the occasion of their 25th Wedding Anniversary. On their return to their home at 40 St. Michael Street, the couple were completely taken by surprise when a group of neighbours, relatives and friends were assembled to honour them with a party. During the festivities Norman presented the couple with a handsome silver tray on behalf of all the guests. * * * * *

Any former Riviere Qui Barre folks around town should remember that the annual parish picnic is being held out there on Sunday. It's a good old fashioned one with ball games, bingos and races in the afternoon and a country style hot turkey supper beginning at 4 o'clock. Mrs. A. McDonnell

Hamilton ded out by the people involved. It was 1882 that the Macleod Gazette recorded a lynching. It seems a new settler refused to help a band of cowboys fight a prairie fire. Prairie fires were serious business in those days. When the fire was put out the cowboys returned to the homestead. They held a Kangaroo Court and decided the settler was no asset to the Community. They lynched him. Also around this period of history is the account of the stage coach driver who forced his passengers, at gun point, to push the coach up a steep hill in Central Alberta. When they reached to top of the hill the passengers used their guns on the driver. To hasten matters they held an inquest on the spot, decided the man must have died of pneumonia, and buried him. Life on the prairies was even cheaper during the whisky trading days. This is well illustrated by a note sent to a friend in Fort Benton by Skookum Joe of Fort Whoop-up. Skookum Joe wrote briefly but with colour, "Bill Geary got to putting on airs so I shot him and he is dead. My potatoes is growing good."

Spend 60¢ - your best bet

Right off the top of your head you could probably think of ten ways you spend 60¢ this week and have nothing to show for it. But there is a way to spend 60¢ and get more than 60¢ worth.

Sometime soon your War Amps Key Tags will be reaching you in the mail. A tiny replica of your licence plate on a key tag will arrive which can solve three problems for you at once: Inconvenience of lost car keys, found keys that are hard to identify, and the problem of remembering your licence number. It's an "on your honour" project which does marvellous work for our war amputees, and all you have to do is mail your 60¢ for the duplicate key tags.

But car keys are not the only ones you can keep track of this way. For 35¢ per single tag you can order as many as you like. A lost house key with this tag attached will come back to you - or a safety deposit key - locker key.

They're a great idea - last year the War Amps mailed back 14,299 sets of lost car keys to their rightful owners. And when all the 60¢ bits got together they supported 43 war amps full-time for a year - helped place other amputees in other jobs - supported artificial limb research - aided amputees families and widows.

Keep you keys - and mail your 60¢ - it's real easy.

St. Albert

We begin this week with a series of articles from Katherine Hughes book on Father Lacombe, "The Black Robe Voyageur". Father Lacombe in 1867 is in the camps of the Crees - - - -

This year again on the prairies in the camps of the Crees as in previous seasons Father Lacombe met with WIHASKOKISEYIN (Sweet Grass), the interesting pagan Indian. Father Lacombe describes him at this period as being unusually short for an Indian warrior and hunter. His bronzed features were fine, his body agile, his manner pleasant and rather graceful and though not of the stature of a great warrior he carried himself as a man who was every inch a chief and leader of men.

Toward the close of this year an Indian courier from the North brought Father Lacombe a letter from Bishop Grandin, appointed co-adjutor to Bishop Tache in 1857. The Bishop was about to come south and establish a See at St. Albert -- leaving the Athabasca-Mackenzie vicariate to the newly-consecrated Bishop Farand.

He asked Father Lacombe to meet him at Carlton. He was naturally anxious to see the most noted of the workers in his new charge. Father Lacombe equally desirous to meet one of the apostles of the Arctic missions planned to combine business with pleasure. He proposed to secure for St. Paul de Csis an allocation as a mission, with a resident priest and an annual grant from the Propagation funds for the diocese -- to make of it, in fact, another St. Albert.

Leaving his flocks on the plains in March he hired "a good tough Indian" as guide, and with his own dogs they made Fort Pitt in four days. Here he hired a new guide, the first pleading fatigue.

Some Indians at the Fort begged him to spend a day or two with them before they left for the prairies, and Father Lacombe could not refuse.

The morning after they left Pitt they woke to a head wind and mild weather. The snow thawing burdened their snowshoes and the sun, dazzling on the white plains, hurt their eyes.

On the last day named by the Bishop for the meeting at Carlton, the post was still 65 miles away. In turn each walked ahead of the dogs to beat the trail, holding deerskin mitts to screen their aching eyes. At night they made a fire to brew some tea, but they could not bear to look on the fire, and Father Lacombe went to sleep rolled in a blanket holding his eyebrows away from his inflamed eyes in hope of relief.

The following day the light was cruelly dazzling as before, and the snow mushy by noon. Nightfall found the travellers approaching Fort Carlton. As they dragged themselves up the Fort hill, they met an old Indian who told them the Bishop had left that morning! At the post Father Lacombe found a letter from him. It was in French, in the fine vague scrawl decipherable only by those familiar with His Lordship's writing. The trader could not read it, and Father Lacombe's eyes were too sore to puzzle over it. This was surely the refined cruelty of Fate.

What is to be done about it? - the priest asked himself? Retrace his steps, and have endured the hardships of that trip for nothing! The thought came only to be dismissed He would of course follow the Bishop.

"How far away do you think their camp will be to-night?" he asked the master of the Fort.

The latter calculated the hour of starting and the condition of the trails -- "only twenty miles, or less," he returned, with perhaps hidden encouragement for the plucky priest.

"Will you lend me fresh dog?"

Eheu! the dogs were all out with the hunters and the clerks. Thirty miles that day was enough for even a good traveller and his dogs -- but the Bishop was ahead on the trail, slipping over the white plains to the Red River . . . The tired dog-train must push on further.

So it was that at nine o'clock Father Lacombe set out again. The network of his snowshoes, that had been wet all day and now was frozen, cut the tired muscles of his feet. His poor dogs lagged, though the track was lighter than during the sunlit days: the only fresh creature on the trail was the Metis who had replaced his Fort Pitt guide ("That Fort Pitt Metis had to rest at Carlton. He was the second man I knocked out on that big trip," Father Lacombe recalled forty years later with a smiling moue of conscious pride.)

He was now travelling mechanically -- the mind keyed to reach the goal in front and the poor body dragged behind. He followed the trail mile after mile doggedly, until they reached a place where it touched the river. They confidently looked for the camp here, But no dogs barked as they approached: there was no debris of fallen boughs The trail wound back from the river -- no camp there.

At this disappointment, coming when his eager soul had been attuned to hear Bishop Grandin's surprised greeting, Father Lacombe's fatigue suddenly overcame him. He pitched his panting dogs, flung prone on the snow for repose. "It is enough," he said to his man, "Make a fire here; we go back to-morrow."

It was now after midnight.

The Metis was sympathetic, as Metis guides have it in their nature to be: but he had heard the young Bishop lamenting that he had missed this other Man of Prayer. So when they "spelled"; he encouraged Father Lacombe to make still another effort.

"Maybe they are not half a mile ahead," he ventured.

On again through the soft starlight across the plains -- a mile was passed, and nearly three -- when in a bluff by the river bank they came upon the camp!

The Bishop's northern dogs barked most wolfishly. The wearied newcomers answered with fainter yelps, as the two men slipped quietly into camp. Bishop Grandin, throwing back his buffalo-skin covering, rose eagerly to meet them, crying with quick Gallic gladness.

"Is this you, Father Lacombe? Is it possible?"

He took his tired confrere into his arms, embracing him as men of the Latin races do, and the worn out priest let his tears come as they would. They always did come easily to his emotional temperament.

The sinking fire was piled high again, the teakettle swung hospitably over it, and when the entire camp had shared in this luxury of the plains the men dropped off to sleep, while the two priests talked long by the fire.

The Bishop was pressing his companion to come on to St. Boniface at daybreak, and share with him the pleasure of meeting Bishop Tache -- that charming prelate, who could be profound or stately as a Lord Chancellor and as irresistibly droll as a schoolboy. But Father Lacombe refused: neither his dogs nor himself had strength left for the trip, he pleaded.

To be continued next week.
